Community Chest Tabled, Pending Report

We reached the magic dozen even last week, as we returned to a dining room under repair at The Miller House. A water pipe had sprung a leak in the ceiling, and caused a two-inch level of water on the floor before discovered. The only signs left of the calamity were some ceiling tiles and insulation, remaining to be replaced.

We started with the usual tossed salad, which was followed by a ground meat substance, shaped roughly into the look of ribs. Barbecue sauce was poured on top, and Kelly told us it was called "pork rib something." It was accompanied by finely cubed fried potatoes (yummy!) and a side medley of beans and carrots. It tasted pretty good, but it just is not the same when you can't hold on to a bone and "tear" the meat off. The dessert was chocolate cake with white frosting and little chocolate chips on top.

Bud StGeorge confessed to being away for a couple of weeks, renovating stuff in Florida. Sue and he took on an air conditioning unit, but when it reached a certain height, Sue couldn't reach to help. As a result, Bud threw his back out, so no golf. Otherwise they had a good trip, and after some deliberation Pat fined him $5.

Nancy Levesque had celebrated her birthday, so we gave her a respectable vocal tribute worth $2.

Art Traphagen offered us two happy bucks. The Lincoln was now in North Carolina and sold, ending a 2 year hiatus in the driveway. (Deanie refused to steer the "ocean liner.") That was one buck, the other was for avoiding Bud's (back) problem while piling up lots of firewood.

President Pat had a "mini" confession and called on past president Tom Didas to fine her for a small trip to Massena, NY, over Thanksgiving. He demanded a dollar. He also decided that Bo should pay a dollar for his un-confessed participation.

Business

Bo distributed a budget based on the figures he received from Nancy Levesque. A motion by Tom Didas (second by Bo) to donate $1,000 to Community Chest was defeated, based on doubts of how much money was actually spent locally. Pat will obtain a report from them so that we get a better understanding.

Pat read the invitation to attend the Mt Morris club's 75th on December 7th.

50/50 was won by Nancy Levesque.
