Good Attendance On A Cold Night

In spite of the cold weather, fifteen of our members and two of the "faithful" guests, Ellen Stephens and Jim Burns came to the meeting last week.

There were no rolls with the salad, so the specter of something from the "boot country" appeared for some of us. The fears were allayed when Kelly brought us a Chicken a la King type dish over biscuits instead. It was really good with a lot of interesting vegetables. The dessert was a cup of sherbet, topped with a triangular piece of highly concentrated chocolate brownie.

With Reverend George back, we had a Rotary Minute again. He had some good information about additional funds for the Polio Plus campaign. The Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation had contributed a 100 million dollars.

Happy Bucks

Jim Burns had a few happy for some "pointy bucks," which had been harvested last week. An eight pointer was shot by his grandson on a second try, that time with the gun resting on a support.

A sad buck (SB) was offered by Sharon Vogt for the Redskin player Sean Taylor, who was slain in a robbery of his home the day before.

It was nice to have Bud StGeorge back again. Suzy and he had been to Florida for a while, opening up their place for the season. While traveling back, they encountered snow in Virginia, making the inevitable question "What are we doing?" Several dollars enriched "the pan."

Nancy Levesque had a birthday, and with such a big crowd, our tribute became pretty impressive.

Bob Radell expanded Jim Burns' tales about hunting Bambi. Hilarious of course, but he especially wanted to tell us about his new exercise regimen, lifting bags of potato. He is now up to 50 pound bags, and next week he will start to put in potatoes to increase the challenge.

George Smith had an HB for Joann being away for a week.

Tom Didas also got his deer (using a gun).

Pat and Bo Lysell had traveled north for Thanksgiving, where they found all in good health after some illness earlier.

A short board meeting was to be held.

50/50 has reached $92

Janine Miceli won the 50/50 but pulled the seven of hearts.
