Another Winter Meeting with Good Attendance

We reached the required dozen meals paid for by members again. This is a good trend, and it looks like we haven't had to subsidize anything yet this Rotary year.

Finally, in Janine Miceli's view, we had pasta again. It was spaghetti with sauce and a side of green beans. It was preceded by a cup of fruit salad, and followed by a chocolate nut streusel like dessert and coffee.

First in line for confessions was Don Griffing, who had an uneventful trip this year, taking his mother and her motor home to Florida. It sounded much like work to me, but Pat fined him $2 anyway.

Sharon Vogt had a happy dollar ready. She revealed that her daughter in Japan is getting married. It is going to take place in Hawaii, so that travel times would be roughly equal for the bride's and groom's families. I think Sharon said June was the date for the event.

Bob Oswald wasn't quite sure what the proper format was, but it sounded like he felt guilty his wife had ignored mentioning three Wayland Rotary Club members as prominent attendees at a Livingston Cty Chamber of Commerce event. Mention had been made of a single Dansville Rotarian and several Lions Club members from various places. He felt so aggravated by this that he upped his bet to two dollars.

President Pat tossed in a happy buck that daughter Anna-Lisa did not have a case of mononucleosis.

Business

Don Griffing has been busy trying to entice students from WCCS to enter the oratorical and vocal contests. He has at least three entrants for the oratorical contest, and the club would have been quite willing to send all three, but the district rules allow only one. We decided to invite all entrants to the meeting on January 30th, since the deadline for applications is the 31st. Don will line up a committee of three to judge.

There is only one entry, Matt Davis, in the vocal contest. He will be invited to a meeting to let us hear as well.

We also decided to move next week's meeting to Monday, when we are meeting a district governor elect from Canberra, Australia, in a joint spouse meeting with the Dansville club. A subsidy to the price of the dinner was set to $10. Art and Polly Shriner will come, barring weather, etc.
