Golf Tournament Huge Success

Eleven members attended last week's meeting. It was a hot day, so consequently they served us watermelon instead of tossed salad. We with allergies to the stuff, provided past president Pat with numerous extra servings.

Following the melon, there was another new dish for The Miller House, - wraps. There were two of them, filled with prime rib cubes and the customary Mexican style vegetables. Home fried potatoes and corn on the side gave all palates a chance. The dessert was a lemon cake with frosting and slices of peach on top for decoration (attractive!).

George Smith delivered the first of a few mini-sermons he intended to make about the Rotary Foundation, keeping almost within the allotted minute (must be hard for a pastor...)

Sergeant at arms Tom was absent, so we would have to do the panhandling ourselves. President Bob started by looking for a past president to adjudicate in a case of publicity seeking he was involved in. Sharon Vogt responded to the call with such vigor that Bob probably felt he couldn't ignore her (even if she had just been the president for the Dansville club...). As it turns out, this was a blessing for Bob and the other suspect in the case, Pat Lysell. They could draw a sigh of relief when they learned about a practice of leniency they have down in Dansville when it comes to such infractions, benefiting Rotary.

Pat's relief was so great that she tossed in five Happy Bucks!? Or was it the melons?

Sharon Vogt had a sad dollar for a lost diamond in her wedding ring. Ironically, that triggered Lou Hazlett's memory, and he put in a happy one for finding his own wedding band in the toolbox of his truck the other day. President Bob also had a painful story about lost stones and resetting thereof, which he left unsupervised to his wife (a mistake you only make once).

George Smith went to Philadelphia. It came under the happy dollar category.

Tom Quinlan had gone to Butler, PA, on an annual week of golf with people from the area. 36 holes of golf per day over 5 days were "endured." No wonder these guys get so good! Five bucks said Bob.

Business

President Bob asked Tom Quinlan to give an update on the financial result of the golf tournament. It netted nearly $5,700.00. We saluted Tom and Bud StGeorge for this outstanding effort, and Tom responded by thanking everyone who helped to make it a success, before, during and after.

President Bob passed out this month's calendar, which has the Potato Festival on it. We are doing the cow poop "pool" again this year. Tickets will be available next meeting.

After telling two hilarious jokes, Bob Radell was asked to pull the winning 50/50, and true to form, - it was his own. He gave it to the club. Thank you Bob!
